Ontario anglers will pay fee in '87

Ontario will introduce a resident licence for sport fishing in 1987. Ontario Natural Resources Minister Vincent Kerrio announced recently.

Mr. Kerrio said the licence will be required by most Ontario residents 18 to 64. Senior citizens and the disabled will be exempt as will Status Indians fishing on their reserve or treaty areas. The annual licence will cost $10 while a short-term licence to fish for four consecutive days will cost $5.

"In public meetings held across the province, and through angler surveys, we have received strong support for this licence," said Mr. Kerrio.

"People have indicated strong approval for plans to put funding equivalent to revenues generated from this licence - projected to be 9 to $10 million a year - into fisheries improvement programs. This support indicates that the time is ripe to adopt the 'user-pay' principle in fisheries management."

"As a result of comments expressed in public meetings, we decided to exempt senior citizens from the licence and to incorporate the short-term licence for occasional anglers," Mr. Kerrio said.

The licence will be widely available through the Ministry of Natural Resources' network of private licence issuers, which includes sporting goods stores and tackle and bait shops. The network will be expanded as required to meet the demand for the licence. MNR district offices will also distribute the licences.

Mr. Kerrio said Ontario is among the last of the provinces to introduce a resident angling licence.

In January, Cabinet gave approval in principle to the proposed licence. Since then, the Ministry of Natural Resources has held more than 30 meetings across the province to hear public views.

Employers scramble to find staff during busy summer

The employment picture in the county is so good this year, there aren't enough people to fill all the jobs, says Haliburton Project Outreach manager Dennis Casey.

"We've had a shortage of labour all summer," Casey explains. "Since spring we've been running 100 to 130 jobs on the board and we've had an awful time filling them."

The biggest shortage of labour is in the construction and hospitality trades. "There are jobs on our board that have been up for as long as a month," Casey says. "And the same goes for jobs for cooks and small motor mechanics."

Asked how the labour shortage is affecting PineStone Inn, manager Wayne McGilvary said, "It's worse this year than it has been in the quite a few years, and we do feel the crunch. We've had a number of work orders posted at Project Outreach, but the response has been poor."

"When our summer students go back to school in the fall, we'll be looking for as many as ten new employees."

Wendy Hughes, manager of the Minden Dixie Lee, has much the same story to tell. "It's definitely better this year for job searchers than it has been in some time. I know of a lot of businesses that are looking for help and by September 1, so will we."

"It's not so much a lack of labour, as a lack of skilled people," Lou Dummitt, a foreman for Jim Johnston Construction said. "We've

Bluegrass attracts enthusiastic crowd

With attendance numbering over 3,000, the Haliburton Bluegrass Festival last weekend was everything organizers hoped it would be.

"It was a busy weekend, everything was fantastic, and we're just thrilled to death," said organizer Gerry Irish. Likely, he commented, "there will be another festival next year." "It's just what we need to put Haliburton on the map."

Eight bands from across Canada and the United States took part in the event and the weather was fine throughout. The most popular groups were the Boys From Indiana on Saturday.

Also interesting, he said, was the gospel service scheduled from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Sunday. The groups performing the service included McDonald Bluegrass, Family Pride and the Boys From Indiana. "But they didn't stop playing at 12:30 p.m. when they were supposed to, because the crowd was so receptive. Instead, they just went right on until one in the afternoon. They were just tremendous."

The proceeds from the event will go toward paying the costs of the event and also to next year's festival, which, says Irish, is 99 per cent sure to go through.

This being Haliburton's first introduction to hillbilly music, some of those who attended came out of curiosity.

"I've never been to a festival like this before," said a woman from the county who gave her name as Didi. "But I really like the music now."

Others like Glen, Bob and Earl Bird, came specifically to hear their favourite groups. Perched on a log at the edge of the amphitheatre, the three brothers said they found the music excellent. "It's what we like to hear," they said.

The Birds live in Harcourt and drove the 30 miles so they could spend the weekend at the festival.

Bill and Ruby Thompson drove for more than three and a half hours so they could listen to the bluegrass, but also for another reason: "We have two daughters who are taking part here." In fact, the daughters led a band - some say one of the best in the event - called the Cindy Thompson Show.

Some of those in charge of the concessions at the entrance to the amphitheatre also had opinions to express.

"This is my first experience of bluegrass music," said ice retailer Jerry Wilson. "And I'll tell you something - you hear one group, you've heard them all."

"I normally listen to military music - Blue Bonnets over the Border, Road to the Isles, that sort of thing - the bagpipes."

One of the biggest feats performed by concert organizers was the preparation of the site at Glebe Park. The land, 175 acres of rolling woods at the north western corner of Head Lake, was originally set aside for public recreation in 1967, but construction of the facilities was never started.

However in the last eight weeks, Haliburton Legion members (the group was in charge of the festival) have arranged for the carving out of roads, campsites and the natural amphitheatre on 25 acres of the park, all according to the 1967 plans. Eventually, it is hoped, the Legion will be able to finish the job by laying sod on some of the exposed earth.

Car taken for joy ride - Kinmount man charged

A 20 year old Kinmount man faces a number of charges following an incident in the early hours of Sunday morning at Curry Motors in Haliburton.

According to the police, the broken GM dealership was broken into and a 1986 Pontiac Firebird removed. Access to the building was gained by breaking a window.

The destroyed vehicle was discovered abandoned on the Harburn Road, a half mile north of the village, where the driver had rolled the car. Damage is estimated at $18,000.

An individual was arrested at the scene of the accident by the investigating officer, Constable Brad Burkholder.

Charged in the incident is Shawn Anthony Wilkinson of Kinmount. He is scheduled to appear in Provincial Court in Minden September 17.

Youth burned

A youth suffering from burns to his neck and side was transferred to a Toronto Hospital by air ambulance Sunday afternoon.

The victim, 15 year old Jeff Perog, was cleaning the inside of an outboard motor at Wentworth Marine on Lake Kashagawigamog on Sunday morning. He was using gasoline in the process when a spark ignited the fuel and flames engulfed the boy.

The owner of the marina smothered the flames with a blanket. The victim ran into the lake and stayed in the water until a car arrived to take him to Haliburton Hospital. After treatment there, he was transferred to the Toronto facility.

Roll over

A charge of careless driving has been laid against a 17 year old Thornhill youth after he lost control of the vehicle he was driving on the Dysart-Glamorgan Road. The incident occurred shortly after noon on August 9.

According to the police, George Zivic was the driver of a 1983 model Volkswagen which went out of control as it crested a hill. The vehicle skidded sideways into a ditch and rolled over several times. Damage was estimated at $6,000.

One of the passengers in the car, 16 year old Laurie Wheeler of Toronto sustained severe facial injuries and was transferred from Haliburton Hospital to Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto.

Constable Brian Sachs was the investigating officer.

Service cut

Telephone service in the Kawagama Lake Road area of Sherborne Township was disrupted this past weekend following a single car accident late Saturday evening.

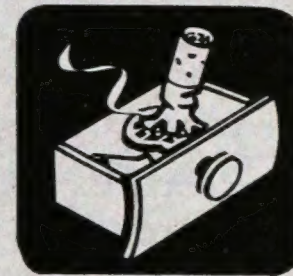

Police report that a car driven by 16 year old Mary Burton of Scarborough, failed to negotiate a curve in the roadway and snapped off a Bell Canada service pole. The phone service to the area was not restored until Monday morning.

The driver of the car sustained lacerations to her foot. Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $5000.00.

Burton has been charged with driving left of the centre of the roadway.

Constable Ben Manuge was the investigating officer.

Summer work

115 jobs.)

"Summer employment," says Casey, "Generally runs at about five percent. There are always about 300 people, give or take a few, on unemployment and looking for work."

"But in winter, the number of job seekers jumps to about 1500 - that's an unemployment rate of about 20 to 22 percent. We don't expect anything different this year. The winter decrease in work is just as traditional as the summer increase."

Casey points out these drastic fluctuations in employment are a fact of life for all communities dependent on seasonal industries.

Library salutes 'Cosmic' readers

A happy group gathered at the Minden Library-Cultural Centre last Wednesday evening to celebrate the completion of the summer reading programme for children.

The annual programme encourages youngsters to read approximately fifteen books over the summer season and they are awarded certificates and badges and treated to cookies and lemonade by the library committee.

Each year, an open house is held at the library, this too, is designed to encourage readers of all ages to wander at leisure through the library and meet the librarians, Bev Wood and Pearl Durant. In summer they can also meet the young page, this year's page is Ken Beers.

The program this year saw thirty children register in the reading event and they included: Matthew Heffer, Meaghan Obee, John Heffer, Beverley Emmerson, Katie Hagerman, Sarah Hagerman, Tom Mahoney, David Raback, Damon

Smith, Laurie Smith, Kimmie Smith, Sara Edwards, Jessica Edwards, Deanna Solway, Jordan Barclay, Kim Harper, Lyndsey Harper, Andrea Berry, Tommy O'Shaughnessy, Greg Olsen, Kirstin Olsen, Michelle Upton, Jayme Del Greco, Denis Arbour, Kerry Brezina, Kevin Brezina, Erin Saarimaki, Adam Saarimaki, Tara Robinson, Lisa Del Greco and John Robinson.

Some of the children who had completed their self-appointed task and interested adults, shared refreshments and ideas with the library staff and committee on Wednesday evening. The reading programme this year was entitled "The Comet Connection" and the certificates and badges reflected that theme.

The library staff are looking forward to another busy year and hope to see many of the local youngsters continue their reading throughout the winter months.

Among the visitors at last Wednesday night's open house in Minden library, were, Lynn Raback, Mrs. Saarimaki, Erin and Adam Saarimaki, David Raback, Sarah and Katie Hagerman and their mother Marilyn, Chris Pergolas, Lynn Bibby, Kevin Smith, Paula Solway, Susan Beers, librarians Bev Wood, and Pearl Durant, Page Ken Beers and Dean and Deanna Solway.

Dorset acid rain report

The following report on the acid content of rain recorded at the Dorset testing station of the Ontario Ministry of the Environment is provided to The Times by the Environment Canada office in Toronto. Four precipitation events were recorded during the past week:

- on August 4, 1 mm of rain fell with a pH of 4.8. The rainfall was traced from northern Ontario, Lake Superior and Lake Huron.

- on August 7, 1 mm of rainfall was recorded with a pH of 3.7. This rainfall was traced to Ohio and Southern Ontario.

- on August 8, 45 mm of rain fell at Dorset with a pH of 4.5. The track of the storm was traced from Michigan, over Lake Huron before reaching Dorset.

- on August 9, 1 mm of rain was recorded with a pH of 4.1. The rain was traced to central Ontario.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

Sharing the catch cost

The introduction of fishing licences for Ontario residents should be welcomed by anglers throughout the province, particularly in light of the government's promise to use the revenue for fisheries improvement projects.

The proposal has been under review for a number of years. The Ministry of Natural Resources took the question to the public earlier this year and learned what many anglers have known for quite some time - yes, they were willing to pay a reasonable levy if they knew the money would be used to improve fishing in the province. Several exceptions to the rule protect junior anglers, up to 18 years of age, seniors, handicapped and Natives in certain locations. All reasonable exceptions.

One concern which some anglers have is that the MNR may withdraw financial support obtained from traditional sources (i.e. general taxation) for fisheries programs, and let the licence levy be the only source of money for fisheries enhancement. We feel most anglers expect the licence fees to be in addition to the dollars now being provided for the betterment of their sport. They will be disappointed if they discover that the traditional revenue source is drying up when the new-found licence fee starts to roll in next January.

Most anglers endorse the government effort to make fishing a sport with 'user pay' support, but we also feel they will want to know that, at least for the immediate future, licence fees won't be the only source of income for fisheries enhancement programs.

The river flows gently past our door as we sit on the verandah of Minden House. We wait for the ducks to come swimming peacefully by. The hills touch the Heavens and all is at peace.

This is your Minden as I see it, people with smiling faces, happy to have their wash flying in the breeze as they slip down to pick up their mail, and help make our day beautiful with their smiles of friendship.

The vibrant colours of the flowers sharing their beauty with humans, the fragile hummingbird that we watch with bated breath as it flutters from flower to flower.

To our hosts, Marion and Stan Hill, we give thanks for sharing their home, talents and for making Minden a better place with their love of beauty and friendship. Without them, we would have missed the beautiful hills at sunset with the trees stretching, always stretching against the rose, mauves and greys of the setting sun.

Children enjoying the bountiful pleasures of summer frequently need one of Mommy's cure-all kisses to soothe a nasty abrasion that may need more loving tenderness than antiseptic or bandages. In these situations the first-aid comes from the heart and secondly from the medicine cabinet.

Last week my son suffered the misfortune of a punctured cheek which required the aid of the Minden Hospital. I would publicly like to state my complete satisfaction with this little hospital and staff: the student nurse Elaine who sensitively held my boy's hand and assisted Dr. Pizzuto who worked in less than ideal operating conditions so that his little patient could be more comfortable. Four needles and thirteen stitches could have been pure fear and pain for a five year old alone with strangers, but allowing Mommy's cure-all kisses in the operating room was a comfort to him and helped him to remain perfectly still for some delicate stitching inside and outside his mouth. It's good for all concerned when a small hospital can accommodate all of a child's needs during specific minor injury repairs.

The wonderful parent-hospital staff co-operation made this hospital experience the best it could be for a brave little boy who "toughed out" the whole trauma like a Jedi.

It sounds quite implausible, yet it's true. Over the next few weeks, mother and father fish will be making their appearance, herding and training great schools of young "dwarf uglies" they're sometimes called.

The Brown Bullhead is by far the most common of Ontario's six catfish. It abounds in lakes and sluggish rivers whether with or without much vegetation. Commonly attaining the length of your forearm, the bullhead is immediately distinguished by its dark brown colour and 10 dangling barbels. One is located by each nostril, and 4 dangle from each corner of the mouth.

Its adaptations make the bullhead glaringly different from other fish. They thrive on soft bottoms and in muddy, flowing water, where silt makes food and obstacles all but indistinguishable. Instead of using its (almost predictably miniscule) eyes, the bullhead relies instead on its barbels. These worm-like tentacles feel obstacles - like a cat's whiskers.

They're also equipped with numerous cells effective at sensing wriggling movement of prey. The dark olive-brown blends perfectly with mud. The broad, flattened shape of the head pins the fish to the bottom during flood periods, so that it is not washed down-river. And the main fins are equipped with heavy spines which, like mammoth needles, will puncture any predator which tries to eat it.

Back in June, the male and female sought out a setting that had to meet precise conditions. It had to be near shore (20 - 30 cm) / (hand) deep, with firm bottom, close to a patch of "shading" aquatic weeds. Most frequently, they're under the edge of a log or stump, or at the mouth of an old muskrat burrow.

There, both parents used their fin spines to excavate a small depression - about the size of a dinner plate. There, they deposited gelatinous masses - each about the diameter of a baseball. In all, 6 - 15,000 amber - coloured eggs were laid, then staunchly defended by both parents.

About 10 days later they began to hatch. Since then, I parent has tended the nest, while the other has herded the growing number of young on foraging expeditions. The jet-black fry are almost perfect miniatures of the adults.

If you watch for them at this time of year - particularly near shore in the early morning, before waves come up - you'll often see a parent herding 20 - 50 young. It's a fascinating sight; one that most people find almost

Harry Skead takes his dream aloft

- by John Greenwood -

The interesting thing about the bright yellow airplane Harry Skead built in his garage is that it's perfect - or at least as close to perfect as a product of human hands can be.

Check out the wings: 36 feet from tip to tip and straight as an arrow. Made of a tough B.C. spruce wood frame covered with fabric instead of metal for lightness' sake, they spread out on either side of the modified Super Piper Cub as smooth and flawless as the wings of a seagull. And hard as you look, you will find no wrinkles or blemishes in the taut fabric skin - because there are none.

Now, check out the fuselage: light but strong (Skead has snapshots of the space-age steel alloy frame he welded together before the skin was applied), every line is true and every seam smooth and airtight. The cockpit is beautifully simple - two seats, one behind the other on a thin plywood floor, and an instrument panel. Running a hand over the controls and along the seats, (Skead even made these himself, though they were upholstered by a professional), you realize the simplicity is the result of long hours of careful thought.

Clearly, Harry Skead likes to do things properly.

Sixteen years ago, when the carpenter/contractor moved to Minden, he built his own house. Handsome and well-conceived, it is another testament to Skead's craftsmanship. And since coming here, he has developed a reputation throughout the county for his fine work.

His interest in planes and flying stems back to his childhood in Montreal and later in Toronto. "My family lived near the Buttonville Airport and in the early 50's, I started taking lessons there. After I got my licence, I began flying commercially and have since worked as a pilot all over Quebec and Ontario."

Though he flew many years for the Haliburton Air Service part-time, he says construction is his business. "It's my avocation, it's how I earn my living. Flying is a hobby."

Some hobby. Skead realizes his interest in something more than say a stamp enthusiast might have for his stamps: "I don't know what it is about flying that fascinates me so much. I can't explain, but I guess you could say it's like a guy who takes up boozing - once I started, I couldn't stop."

Building a plane, then, was Skead's way of supporting his habit. Like many fliers, he hoped, by constructing his own aircraft, to avoid the huge cost of buying a manufactured one as well as the expense of annual engine overhauls that are mandatory for all but home-built planes.

He began the project five years ago. Unlike other fliers though, he did not start with a prepared kit of parts and step-by-step instructions. All he had was a rough set of plans.

"Even before getting the materials, I had to do a lot of research. I had to find out which woods to use, where and how to find them. I had to look at the various kinds of metals available and then decide which to use. In phone calls alone, I think I've spent over $400."

Gradually the plane began to take shape on the floor of Skead's garage.

"The actual building was the easy part. Before putting anything together, I thought long and hard about how I was going to do it and what the result would be.

"Most of it was just simple geometry. I'd calculate what had to go where and at which angle, and then build a jig to do it."

Oddly, the hardest part was doing the landing gear. "I knew where the wheels had to go, but I had a difficult time getting the angle of the wheels right. And it is important to do this properly, because if your calculations are out too far, you'll lose control of the plane before it leaves the ground."

The limited space in the garage was another problem. The aircraft had to be built in parts - wings, rudder, stabilizer, and fuselage - all laid out so as not to fill any more of the room than absolutely necessary. Over the years, with Skead putting in weekends and the odd evening to work on it, the plane slowly came together.

By the beginning of last winter, however, there was still a long way to go. By that time however, Skead had decided it was time to finish the job and to this end, he started giving it all his free time. Problems that had been put off were faced, the engine was installed (a second-hand 135 horsepower Lycomine, bought from a man who'd scrapped his plane), the dashboard wiring completed, and the fabric skin applied to the frame.

And about two and a half weeks ago, he pulled everything out onto the driveway and put it all together. There is sat in the middle of the asphalt: a brand new Super Piper Cub - with a few design changes to the control panel and windshield. About 97 percent built from scratch by one man with very little help from anyone else. It was a proud moment for the carpenter/contractor who liked to fly.

Then, very carefully, Skead took it apart again and the next morning with the wings loaded into the back of a pickup truck and the fuselage towing behind another, he transported his precious aircraft to a friend's airfield north-west of Carnarvon.

Once again he put it together, and it's sitting there now in the shelter of the hangar. Everything has been polished and the finish is immaculate.

Immaculate because the plane is still unflown - virginal, in fact. Until it is inspected by Federal Aviation authorities and Skead issued a special permit, it must remain on the ground. Skead isn't sure when they'll come. "It might be today, it might be two weeks from now. I don't know."

Of course he's had it out on the runway with the engine running to see how well it taxis, but, says the maker, it hasn't been in the air.

Likely, it'll fly, he says. "The taxi tests went off perfectly so there's no reason to suspect a flight test won't have the same results. But the only way to find out for certain is to try it out; to start the engine, race down the airstrip, and...well, see what happens."

Skead, however, is not troubled by a powerful desire to carry out some of the tests on his own before the inspectors arrive. He prefers to work calmly and rationally according to the rules and legal rules as far as he's concerned are just as important as the laws of physics and geometry.

"And besides," he points out, "They'd crucify me if they ever found out I'd been flying without a permit."

But there's just the hint of a spark in the patient craftsman's eye as he says this, suggesting perhaps that the thought of his plane sitting in the dark hangar, untried, has caused him to roll over more than once in the night.

Eager to get his plane in the air, Harry Skead, patiently awaits the arrival of the federal inspectors who will issue the necessary permit.

Minden businessman Gord Monk, right, and Bess Cox, second from right, officiate at the weigh-in following the annual Rockbass derby in the Gull River last Friday.

River yields 60 lbs of bass

Young anglers working singly, in groups and with family members pulled over 60 pounds of rock bass from the Gull River Friday during the annual fishing derby. Sponsored by the Minden Business Improvement Area, the derby is held in conjunction with the community's annual sidewalk sale.

Derby originator, Stuart Brandon, noted that the one day competition not only provides entertainment for the young anglers, but also assists in reducing the population of coarse fish in the river. He pointed out that the BIA is involved in an annual fish stocking program, introducing hatchery raised rainbow trout to the river. The rock bass compete with the game fish for food and eat the smaller trout. "The derby helps to enhance the trout habitat," he commented.

BIA president John Pentney described the derby as a "community event." He noted that merchants from throughout the village contribute prizes for the young anglers. "It's proved to be a very popular contest," he said, "we are extremely pleased with the number of rock bass taken from the river each year."

Leading the anglers this year was the entry of Steven Forsbrey of Mountain

Lake. His one day's angling weighed in at 13 15/16 pounds. While the catch was weighed in under his name, he shared the day's activities with another angler. (Derby rules allow friends or family members to pool their effort for the final weigh-in, however only one prize is awarded for each entry.)

In second spot with 11 5/16 pounds was David Short of Minden. Third place went to Michael Bragg of Oshawa with a weight of 7 5/16 pounds.

Other participants in the order of their placing included: Chris Brock of Burlington, staying at Miners Bay Lodge, tied with Simon Prentice of Minden with 6 15/16 pounds; John Hewson of Minden tied with Jarrett Gentle of Minden with 4 6/16 pounds; Jeremy Phillips of Minden with 3 6/16 pounds; Jason Todd of Minden with 1 4/16 pounds; and Jeffrey Montgomery of Minden with 1 2/16 pounds.

All anglers received merchandise prizes donated by the following Minden and area merchants: Big Jer's Bait, Jadek Sports, Minden Home Hardware, Stedmans Minden and Northland Sales.

from the chamber

by Shawn Hagerman

Sometime over the last month or so, membership within the Chamber of Commerce moved past the 350 mark. This is one of the true barometers of the help and strength of the Chamber within our county. The growth has been steady.

Membership has been steadily growing from all sectors and geographic regions that the Chamber services. Operators, business owners and private people have all recently joined our organization.

Indicative of this new mood that has occurred within our county in the last year or so is the letter I recently received from Mr. Bill Redgrave of the Hunter Creek Inn. He wrote to me last week to express his appreciation of the new found look that he felt the Chamber has taken on this past year. I quote, "It is easy for us to criticize but I feel a word of praise is due and I think that through the fine efforts of our new manager, who has shown professionalism and leadership in promoting our great county, that we are finally on the right track."

The Chamber can be a way of promoting Haliburton as a place to visit, invest and live in. I challenge those who have joined the Chamber to invest not only their yearly dues, but if they have other talents and resources, serving on our Board of Directors, or working with our committees, we can all make this county a better place to live.

We're breathing clearer air

- by Bill Scott, MP -

According to the latest Clean Air Act annual report, Canadians are breathing cleaner air than ten years ago. The report shows that lead levels have decreased by 66 per cent since 1976 while concentrations of sulfur dioxide and carbon monoxide are down by 31 and 54 per cent respectively; the concentration of nitrogen dioxide has declined by 23 per cent and total suspended particulates have decreased by 41 per cent over the past decade. Copies of the Clean Air Act annual report are available from the Communications Directorate, Environment Canada, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0H3.

On July 29, the Hon. John Crosbie, Minister of Transport, announced a Transport Canada proposal that all new cars, multipurpose vehicles, trucks and buses be fitted with daytime running light systems by 1989. This was officially published in the Canada Gazette July 12. This is a Canadian road safety initiative based on Transport Canada research over the past ten years. It is estimated these systems could reduce multiple vehicle collisions by 10 to 20 per cent. This would be equivalent to a three to six per cent drop in the overall accident rate and a saving of up to $50 million annually.

On July 28 Solicitor General James Kelleher stated that most of the amendments to the Young Offenders Act passed by Parliament in June would come into force on September 1st. The changes coming into effect will:

- Empower the police to intervene quickly and make an arrest when a young offender fails to comply with the conditions of a probation order or non custodial sentence.

- Clarify that any adult or young person involving children in criminal behaviour is subject to prosecution.

- Allow for consecutive sentences totalling more than three years when a young person commits a subsequent offence while still subject to an earlier sentence.

- Provide that the youth court may allow publication of - the identity of a young person who poses a danger to the public, when public assistance would aid in his apprehension and where a peace officer makes an application; - the identity of an accused young person or of a young person or child who is a victim of witness, upon the request of the person to be identified.

- Modify the provisions of current law on the testimony of children and detention prior to sentencing.

In another announcement on July 31, the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission denied an application by Bell Canada to phase out its manual and automatic mobile telephone services by December 31, 1986. As a result of this decision, the manual telephone service will be available at least until December 1988, while the automatic service will not be withdrawn until December 31, 1987.

unbelievable.

Under the parent's care, the bullheads consume vast numbers of the aquatic insects which are now available. They have to. For, by fall, the supply of invertebrates will reduce sharply, and the size of available morsels will increase to fighting dimensions. Through the winter, they'll feed on crayfish, clams, aquatic worms, dead fish and even plant material.

Despite their 'hideous' appearance and reputation as scavengers, bullheads are actually nourishing and tasty to anything which can get past their spines. In the wild, that includes osprey and eagles, and a few rather agile mammals. It also includes people; provided the fish come from clean waters, free of toxics, they are tasty fish indeed.

Keep your eyes open when you're near a lake this summer. Those herds of black baby bullheads are marvellously adapted - and an intriguing contrast with most fish.

The easy way -- the way of the spray! Nobody knows the potential expense to our health as well as to the health of birds, animals, insects, and water life.

The acrid smell of Hydro's defoliant lessens considerably after several rains. Where has the chemical gone? Hydro maintains it is concerned only with the small trees. Then why must fruit bushes, ferns, trilliums, and countless other species suffer? A chain saw could nip off only the offending young trees.

Editor:

A few days ago I was talking with some of the staff at Kilcoo, and they all commented on the Minden Hardware, remarking about the warmth, support and help which is always offered by the staff.

If we could give an award to a Minden business, we would like to nominate the Minden Hardware, for they rightly deserve the recognition. Without exception, the staff are courteous, smiling, and always willing to help.

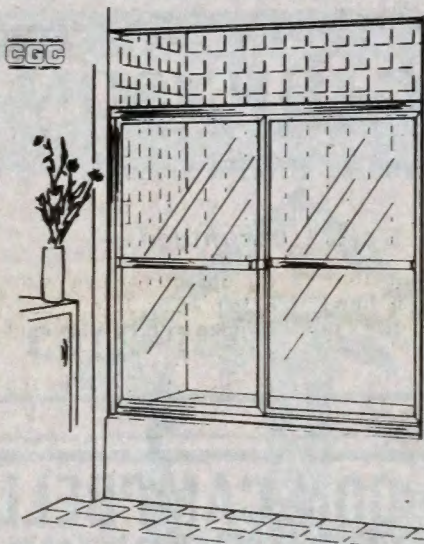

On behalf of the Latimer family, we wish Minden Home Hardware continued success, and want them to know how much we enjoy visiting the store. A smile means so much!

Thank you very much.

Diners at the Schnitzel House Restaurant Friday received a warm greeting from one of a number of costumed characters strolling throughout the community in conjunction with Minden's annual Sidewalk Sale. The moose and two bears helped to liven up the day's activities and brought a smile to the faces of young and old.

Fishing licences

Questionnaires, angler surveys and letters to the ministry indicated that most people favoured a licence, providing that funding equivalent to revenues generated is used in fisheries management.

"The additional funding will be used to improve the quality of sport fishing in Ontario," Mr. Kerrio said. "It will go toward programs to protect, rehabilitate and enhance Ontario's fisheries both in northern and southern Ontario."

"For example, we can consider such projects as fish culture stations, the construction of fish ladders to aid naturally-reproducing species, improved enforcement capability and restoring fish habitat in urban areas to provide more fishing opportunities nearer people's homes."

Mr. Kerrio said the resident angling licence will also give ministry staff important information about how the resource is being used: "It will tell us who is fishing, where and for what. With this information, we'll be better able to gear our fisheries management priorities and fisheries related expenditures."

"The investment which anglers make in our fisheries resources will have far-reaching benefits in increased employment and tourism and recreational opportunities," Mr. Kerrio said.

The intricate floral displays drew admiring glances from those attending the annual Horticultural Show.

Using wood, flowers and vegetables, Minden resident Richard Kirkwood created this award winning entry entitled "Horticultural Harmony."

Enthusiastic crowd enjoys flower and vegetable show

Winners of Minden's seventh annual Horticultural flower and vegetable show included: Illa Cooper, who came first over all and Margot Ziorjen who placed second. Over 320 exhibits were received from the 25 adult and 13 junior exhibitors.

Lisa Holland and Rebecca Wilson placed first and second in the junior categories with just one point separating them.

The show was considered a success and the theme of "Floral Symphony" was well represented.

Bracebridge takes sixth annual baseball tournament

The Bracebridge Bucks won the Sixth Annual Rockcliffe Invitational Fastball Tournament held in Minden this past weekend. They defeated the Toronto Coasters in the final game on Sunday night by the score of 1 - 0.

Pitcher Mike Crawford of the winning Bucks was chosen the most valuable player of the tournament as he recorded 53 strike-outs in the 27 innings that he worked and didn't allow a run.

South River won the Consolation Championship with a 5-4 win over Toronto La Paloma in eight innings.

There was some excellent ball played over the weekend, with the fans being treated to exciting extra inning ball games.

On Sunday, in the semi-finals, the local Minden

Rockcliffe Hustlers were defeated by South River 6 - 4. Also the West Guilford Boys in a tough battle with Bracebridge lost 1 - 0 in nine innings. This was an excellent ball game with Jim Chilvers of West Guilford striking out 14 batters and Crawford of Bracebridge striking out 13.

Perhaps the most exciting game of all was between the Toronto Coasters and the Toronto Royals also a semi-final contest. The Coasters finally won 6 - 4, four and one half hours after starting time and seventeen innings of fine entertaining ball.

The Rockcliffe Hustler Ball Club would like to thank all the competing teams, the umpires, fans and all the help they received from their loyal helpers in making this tournament a success.

A South River baserunner puts on the brakes and attempts to flee back to second base when Rick Hartwick of the Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers grabs the ball. The manoeuvre proved fatal as Hartwick chased down the runner and tagged him out before he reached the safety of second base.

Hustlers advance to finals

The Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers have swept their semi-final series with Lindsay Town Rental in three straight games.

Last week, on Tuesday night in Lindsay, the Hustlers jumped out to a three run lead in the first inning and never looked back as the team defeated Lindsay 6 - 2. Big guns at the bat for the locals were Rick Hartwick (1 double and 3 singles) and Dave Dollo (1 double and 2 singles) winning pitcher was Brian Shaw.

Last Thursday at home, the Hustlers defeated the visiting Town Rental by the score of 4 - 1.

Barry Shaw in his first start of the year was the winning pitcher, but the big story of the night was the play of rookie Doug Shaw. He pulled off 2 unassisted double plays and went 3 for 3 at the plate with a double and 2 singles.

The Hustlers will now meet the Bobcaygeon Juniors beginning on Thursday night in Minden at 8:00 p.m. and they are looking for a tough series as the Juniors also disposed of Lindsay Pizza Hut in three straight games.

Let's get out to the park and see fastball at its best and give the boys the boost they deserve.

43 dash in Fun Run

Forty-three hardy men, women and children strapped on their running shoes last Wednesday so they could compete in the Haliburton Fun Run. Contestants had a choice of two courses, one five kilometres long and the other ten kilometres.

With a time of 16 minutes and 33 seconds, John Pickard was the winner of the open class 5 kilometre run. Mike Hatkoski, with a time of 16:48 was second and Tom Wilson at 17:15, came third.

The winner of the women's open was Marla MacNaull at 20:08. Second was Kim Ward with 22:43 while Pam Isles came third with 27:35.

Brad Shepherd came first in the Junior class at 16:56 and at 22:33, Cassie Conrad was second.

With a time of 27:03, Julie Waltho was the first Junior woman.

At 33:04, Danny Howat took first in the men's open 10 kilometre run. Jack Lond was second with 33:43 and Marcel Crete third with 35:08.

Anne Rogers won the women's open with 52:30 and Allison Brooke took second with 61:08.

In the junior men's, Aaron White came first with a time of 50:04 and Jamie Crackower was second at 57:30.

Marla and Bob MacNaull, father and daughter, streak across the finish line in the Haliburton Fun Run last Wednesday. Forty-three people participated in the run which was part of the Haliburton Rotary Carnival celebrations.

Reeve Sinc Nesbitt flashes a broad grin as he accepts the Onondaga-Rockcliffe Cup on behalf of the municipality from former Heineken Yard organizer Ian Sainsbury. The cup was presented to the municipality by AMICI and Amstel Brewery in appreciation for the community's continuing support of the annual footrace. This year marked the fifteenth edition of the race. Also on hand for the presentation, which took place as part of the race's awards ceremony, was Anson, Hindon and Minden deputy reeve Bern Berry, second from right, and Rockcliffe Tavern owner, Dave Willis.

County pets require rabies vaccination - new regulation

Although Haliburton County does not have the worst record in Southern Ontario in regard to incidence of rabies, ten cases of rabid animals have been dealt with at the health unit so far this year.

According to Haliburton's Chief Public Health Inspector, Bob MacNaull, the doctor in each case was aware that his patient had handled or been bitten by a rabid animal and felt that the patient was at risk.

In Haliburton, Victoria and Northumberland counties, there have been over 115 cases of animal rabies so far this year. This compares with 84 cases for the same period last year. The worst affected areas are Simcoe and York counties, explained Mr. MacNaull.

Animal rabies are a growing problem for southern Ontario. Statistics of the Ministry of Health show that the number of cases rose 47 percent in one year, from 1,450 in 1984 to 2,150 in 1985. Southern Ontario has the highest concentration of animal rabies in North America.

Surprisingly, the number of rabid cats exceeds that of rabid dogs by as much as 50 percent. Among wild animals, skunks and foxes are the most notorious carriers of the disease. However, Mr. MacNaull explained that Haliburton's low human population and the resultant lack of contact with wild animals has kept the occurrence of rabies low in this area.

As a result of increased concern on the part of health officials in Ontario, a new regulation now requires that all domestic pets in the county will have to be vaccinated against rabies. To assist in achieving this standard, a number of special clinics are planned for September during which pet owners will be able to have their animals vaccinated at a special reduced rate. Details on these clinics will be included in upcoming editions of The Times.

Greed attracts participants to pyramid pilot scheme : OPP

Pyramid schemes attract people who want to get rich quick but the Ontario Provincial Police Special Investigation Branch warns it is much more likely players will lose their money and could find themselves arrested, fined and even jailed.

Currently, a pyramid ring called the Pilot Investment Club, or the airplane pyramid, is operating in Ontario. Regardless of the name, all pyramid schemes are illegal.

Simple mathematics show most participants will be bilked of their money. Here's how it works: A pyramid consists of 15 people. The person at the top is called the "pilot". The next level consists of two people called "co-pilots" and the next level is made up of four people referred to as the "crew". The last layer involves eight people called "passengers".

To work, the eight passengers each give the pilot an amount, called an "investment", that can be as much as $5,000.00 each. The usual amount of the schemes now operating is $2,200.00.

Once he has his money, the pilot leaves and the pyramid splits into two pyramids each piloted by the original two co-pilots. Everyone else moves up one row and another eight passengers are recruited for each of the pyramids.

Theoretically, should no one drop out and all 16 new players pay their "investment" money, the original co-pilots would receive their money and would leave the scheme. The two pyramids would be split into four pyramids.

If each pyramid was to fill and be split each day, the number of new members would double daily until the end of just two weeks when there would be 262,143 people playing. At the end of the third week, 33,544,431 persons would be needed and a mere three days later 268,435,455 would be involved.

So who wins at the pyramid game? According to the Ontario Provincial Police the answer is - almost no one. And, who loses? Simple mathematics show that aside from the hustlers who set up the pyramids, and whose names are at the top, everyone else will lose.

Contrary to what participants are told at meetings, police undercover officers are attending organizational meetings of the Pilot Investment Club and other pyramid schemes currently operating in Ontario, and arrests are being made. The Criminal Code provides for a penalty of a maximum of 2 years imprisonment and fines are unlimited.

It's cheaper to eat well says federal study

The latest food prices report from Agriculture Canada tells us that the cost of a "nutritious food basket sufficient to meet the requirements of a sample Canadian family of four" was $105.80 a week in Toronto, in June.

This breaks down to a cost of $1.26 per meal, per person if they eat 21 meals per week at home. It compares very favourably to our own meal cost of $1.25 to $1.30 per person in our family of four. And we tend to eat more than the average.

These figures emphasize the great discrepancy between nutritious food and your grocery bill, which includes everything from junk foods such as soft drinks to T.V. dinners to household cleaning products. Some of these items are necessary in the running of the home, but in others we are paying for processing and packaging which we throw away, or for food substitutes which are expensive yet contribute nothing to our nutritional well-being.

Take soft drinks, for example. You get water, sugar, artificial flavouring and carbon dioxide for 38 cents per can or $1.15 per litre. Milk on the other hand costs 70 cents per litre, and it provides nearly all of the protein an adult needs, plus calcium, phosphorus, and vitamins A, D, and B complex.

Fresh fruits and vegetables may seem expensive at the time, but compared to pastries, doughnuts and other "dessert" items you buy, the per meal cost is fractional.

Meat may be a costly item when we see the "per kilogram" price, but when we compare a serving at home to the cost of a serving in a restaurant, it's really quite a bargain.

Start with the $1.25 you spend to eat at home. Add 10 to 15 cents for hydro or gas to prepare it, and hot water to do the dishes. Compare this $1.40 with a hamburger, fries and milkshake at your favourite fast food outlet for $4.50 to $6.00. You can see easily that the luxury of eating out is an expensive one.

When you consider that one-third of our meals are eaten outside of the home, it becomes obvious that it is our standard of living, not our cost of eating that is expensive.

Next time you do your weekly shopping, take a look at what you take from the shelf. Do you need it? Will it be good for your family? If not, substitute it for homegrown "real" food. Your family and your bank account will both benefit.

Bill Ingram and Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Sinc Nesbitt did the honours Wednesday afternoon at the official opening of the Minden Shuffleboard courts. With a snip of the ribbon, the newest recreational facility in the municipality was opened. An enthusiastic crowd was on hand to witness the ceremony and enjoy an afternoon of shuffleboard.

Shuffleboard Courts opened

There were smiles all around Wednesday afternoon as local politicians and enthusiastic Shuffleboard Club members were on hand for the official opening of the Minden courts.

Located next to the tennis courts, the new facility offers four playing surfaces, a small equipment shed and benches for spectators and players.

The opening marked the end of a year's hard work for club members who, with the support of the municipality and the Federal New Horizons program, made it possible.

Following the opening ceremonies, club members and their guests enjoyed an afternoon of games and refreshments at the courts.

Couple injured in auto mishap

A couple was injured following a single car accident Sunday afternoon on Highway 118 in Stanhope Township.

According to the police, Fred Grossinger, 38, and his wife Suzanne, of Willowdale, were in a car which left the highway travelled into the ditch and bounced over several large boulders. The couple was taken to Haliburton Hospital and later transferred to North York General Hospital. The extent of their injuries is unknown.

Secret identity revealed. Millie Boskett found Mr. Shuffleboard, Jack Weekes, during the opening festivities at the new Shuffleboard Courts in Minden. Those in attendance were asked to find the mystery man in the gathering. For her efforts, she won one of the many prizes awarded that day.

Damage to the couple's 1984 Audi was estimated at $7000.00.

Constable Gary Chapman was the investigating officer.

Safe driver

This week's safe driver award has been presented to Anita M. Smith of Haliburton. She was observed August 8 on Haliburton's Main Street, stopping to allow pedestrians to cross the busy street.

It may not be a real cruise ship, but it was the closest thing the Rotary Club of Minden Carnival draw chairman Cec Rowe could find in the Highlands this time of year. Judy Chapman, the winner of the prize, a cruise for two to the Caribbean, doesn't seem to mind however, as she knows she'll be stepping on the deck of the real thing sometime in the next six months, likely when most of us are having to contend with snow and cold. Mrs. Chapman's ticket was drawn at the carnival dance August 2. The Rotary Summer Carnival produced another big winner. Lynda Jones, a seasonal resident in the area who hails from Oshawa, was the sole winner of the $1000 grand prize at the club's special Bingo August 3. According to the organization's Bingo chairman, the large prize bingo proved to be such a success, that another is planned for August 31.

Group salutes summer with annual BBQ

Well, hello everyone. We hope you are enjoying the summer and weather. Our folks were truly favoured with good weather on the occasion of our annual barbeque. The event was held on our lovely court with many residents and friends attending.

The Laver Brothers Band entertained us in their usual friendly manner and we do appreciate them so much. See you soon.

Shirley Davis made us very happy too as she sang solos accompanying herself on the guitar. Her husband Murray accompanied her on the accordion while Garth Horsley assisted with his mandolin. We look forward to hearing from you soon.

Later in the afternoon, while still enjoying the music, the smell of food cooking on the barbeque wafted our way. Len Trodd and Mark Vasey were either burning or preparing those hamburgers for us. We certainly didn't mind stopping to enjoy them, or the hot dogs. Mabel Trodd assisted. Everything was so appetizing as Kathy and Lil passed around the goodies, that one had to ask, "Why don't we do this more often?"

Also at that time our birthday resident Jean Cowan was presented with a cake, lovingly decorated by Mary.

Thanks for the lovely music, food, friends and flowers. To those musicians I am tempted to add:

It's a wonderful world
And it's people like you
Who make it this way
By the things that you do.

I am looking forward to next year, aren't you? You did a good job, M.C. Albert.

We are glad to see Vivian and Ernie Anderson back from a lengthy visit with relatives to Whitehorse, Yukon. From their pictures, it was truly a very scenic trip. Welcome back folks.

Many thanks go out to our crafts convener, Holly Cooper for her stained glass work displayed in our lounge. It adds so much to the decor of the room.

We understand that Mrs. Mary Casey, our long-time resident, has become a resident at Hyland Crest. We know you will be well taken care of, Mary and we wish you well.

Congratulations are in order for our custodians Corinne and Hector on the arrival of a very pretty little granddaughter, Megan. Congratulations to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adamson.

A note of thanks goes out to Mrs. Ann Barker for making our quilt display and ticket sales such a success at Stanhope Fun Day. Also, I thank sincerely, Mary Stevenson for her help in selling tickets and Alex for setting up our booth.

We are glad to hear than Jean Cowan has had her operation in Lindsay Hospital and is doing very well. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Thought for the day: What do we live for, if it is not to make life less difficult for others.

Goya
Francisco Jose de Goya Y Lucientes
A Genius, youngest of Spains old Masters, Ribera, Velazquez, etc.
First he painted the glory of Spain
The aristocrats, the wealthy, the king and queen
Then he painted his beloved country
In all its misery and its pain,
Destruction and death.
Like another artist, he grew deaf
This shut him up in a world of silence -
In his silence he beheld things he'd not seen before
Life was not romantic anymore,
But stark and naked -
He saw reality and things he had failed to see
And painted the world as it would be
In time to come.
The war, pestilence and poverty drove him mad
He reverted to darkness
So black and dismal and so sad.
He dreamed in his loneliness and despair
His giant dreams were really there
In his mind's eye.
He saw so many people die
In horror!
He dreamed of giants, their heads in the clouds
But with feet of clay,
He painted bulls, heads lowered
And at bay,
At the mercy of picadors.
When he was a youth - he said
He fought the bulls in the corrida,
Once he was a proud mano
Painting the Maja, both naked and dressed,
The queen of Spain
The Duchess of Alba
He was blessed with so much talent,
But then the horror beset him.
Saturn devouring his children,
The Witches' Sabbath
Fray Pedro shoots the bandit Margate
Mala Noche,
All the disasters of war
Brought him down
But once seen, no one can E're forget Francisco Goya
He has made his mark
Upon eternity - His art is stark and naked for all to see
His very soul upon the canvas
His life was ended at eighty-two
But his work and vision live on for me and you.

A Tribute to Ina
This summer Minden lost one of its best loved citizens. That person was Ina Marie Brintnell, loving wife of Percy and mother of Barbara Hodgson.
Ina believed in participating in the activities in the community. She was a member of the Eastern Star, and at one time on the executive of the Cancer Society. Many will remember the curling bonspiels with Ina the skip, she also enjoyed five pin bowling and carpet bowling.
But it was in her church work where her Christian light shone brightest. For many years she was Sunday School Superintendent, an elder, a Women's Missionary Society president, as well as president of the United Church Women. The Lydia group will always remember her Christmas parties.
We all have many happy memories and our lives have been enriched by her friendship.

Guild news

by Leo Dobrzensky

"Let's put Haliburton on the map," is a popular saying in this area. How many local residents realize that the Guild of Fine Arts, in partnership with Sir Sandford Fleming College, has done just that, almost singlehandedly, and with more imagination than money.

Today the name Haliburton is well known in the Art and Craft world on an international level. The year-round presence of the Guild and the Summer School of Fine Arts has attracted a number of people, not all of whom are artists, to the County, first to vacation and eventually to retire. To these newcomers to the area and to many older residents, the Guild is not just one of the many organizations to which one belongs, being a member is a way of life.

In order to finance the Guild's activities some fund raising is necessary. One such project is a draw for a 14-day trip for two to Portugal, including airfare and accommodations. Tickets for the draw, which will take place on October 11, can be purchased at the Gallery for $5.00. The "Early Bird" draw for $250, held on August 1, was won by Pauline Holancin.

Mrs. Holancin, a painter, is one of some 55 teachers who instructed this year's crop of over 1,000 students who flocked to Haliburton from all over the globe. Like many of her fellow art instructors, Pauline Holancin returns to the summer school year after year and has seen the campus grow from small beginnings to the prestigious position it now holds among art schools.

Under the guidance of top-notch professionals, students from all across Canada, the U.S.A., and even far-away Australia, are given the opportunity to achieve excellence in the field of arts and crafts. This year, a marquetry course given by local resident Kevin Dunlop was a new and exciting venture for the school.

As a result of experiencing the beauty and culture of the Highlands, many teachers and students have bought property in the area and some plan to retire here. This trend has had great spin-off benefits for the local economy as a whole and since it does not show any signs of abating, will continue as long as Haliburton County remains a desirable place to live in.

Today it is difficult to remember that prior to 1967, both institutions which we take so much for granted did not exist. The story of how the "Banff of the east" came into being is well described in Nila Reynolds' book: "Dream of Excellence". Without fanfare, and mostly through plain hard work by a group of dedicated volunteers, the brainchild of Rev. Ron McCaw has finally come into its own. For continuous success, both the Guild and the School of Fine Arts deserve to be supported wholeheartedly and generously by every resident of Haliburton County.

The survey continues

by Donna Bailey

The needs assessment survey for Haliburton County is progressing very well.

This survey will result in the accumulation of data as to the needs of mainly our seniors and disabled persons as they see it and as their families see it.

Using this data, we will see where we are fulfilling the needs and also see where there are gaps in our services. From this data, we will also be formulating programs to fill the needs that are missing.

We hope that you are now more informed about the services of Home Support Services for yourself or for family members. Due to the number of persons in Haliburton County to be contacted, Gail Barnhart and Cathy Tyler were unable to complete this part of the project due to the time factor.

As a result, nine volunteers have been approached to help with the Needs Assessment Survey. They are Elsie Bursey, Alice Martin, Helen Henderson, Margaret Stephenson, Margaret Horsley, Ruby Francis, Muriel Bailey, Victoria Agnew and Win Wilson. Please be assured that these volunteers will keep all information confidential and it will be recorded only as a mass recording system for information that we accumulate. They will be phoning your home within the next few months.

We realise that not all households can be contacted as many people are working or are away, etc. when Gail, Cathy or the volunteers phone. If you are not contacted and wish to be part of the survey, please call our office at 457-2941 or 457-2171 any week day.

We deeply appreciate your cooperation in answering the questions for the Needs Assessment Survey. It is very important for Home Support to have answers to these questions to that we can address the needs for people in our County. Thank you.

Trent-Severn Waterway report

On Tuesday, August 5, the Haliburton Lakes averaged 79.3% of normal maximum level which was a decline of only 1.3% since July 28. This puts 1986 summer levels about 6.5% above the 10 year average line, and very near a surplus situation for the time of year.

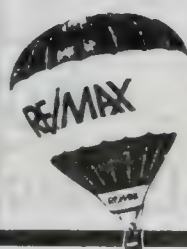

Kawartha Lakes levels were declining and, reaching into their ranges by Tuesday, August 5 so a cut back of the surplus flow was made. By Thursday, August 7 it became obvious that the repeated rains and drizzle plus a pending surplus in Haliburton required that the flow be increased again.

Except for a couple of weeks in mid-July the summer has been wetter than average so that larger than minimum flows should now be available until Labour Day.
